

JOIN THE COMIC BOOK RELIEF CHALLENGE!

In 4th grade, your child makes the significant shift from learning to read to reading to learn. In order to support the students we serve in making this transition, the Clinton-Macomb Public Library is excited to offer the Comic Book Relief reading challenge!

Your child received the Comic Book Relief pamphlet when a CMPL librarian visited their classroom. To complete the challenge, we ask that each participant read 15 graphic novels during their 4th grade year.

WHY GRAPHIC NOVELS?

Graphic novels are engaging! Less kids are reading for fun these days, and that typically starts in 4th grade. Reading for enjoyment is directly linked with higher test scores in students, and graphic novels can help keep reading fun.

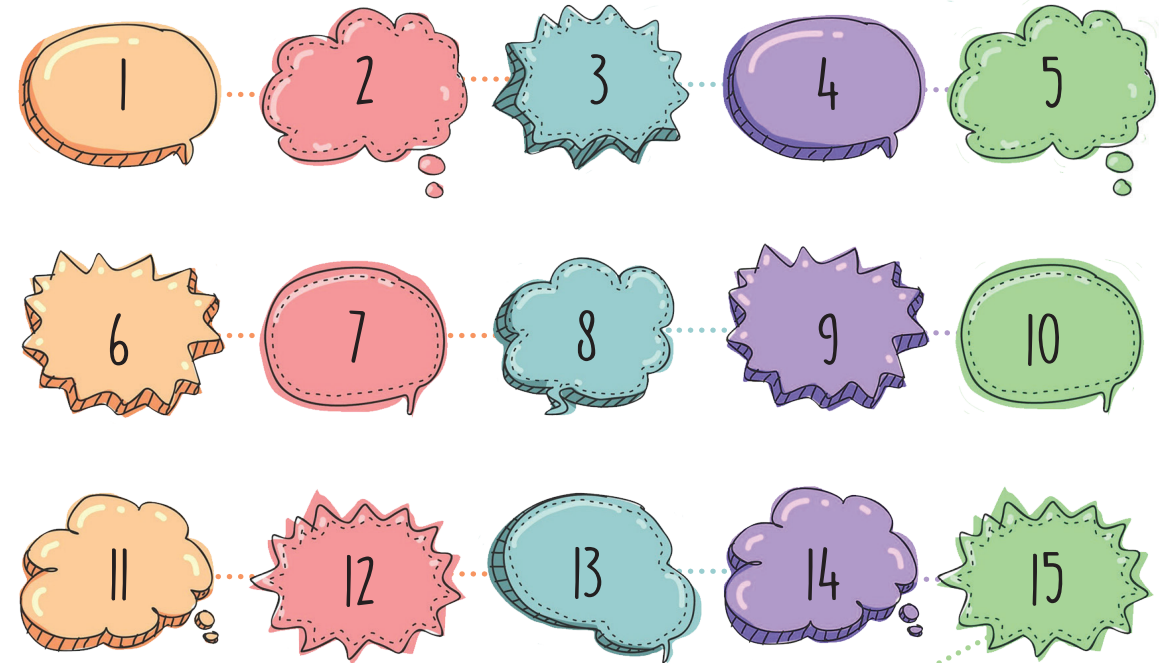

Reading graphic novels requires us to read complex text and decode illustrations. Studies have found that the use of graphic novels in classrooms improves student comprehension and deepens understanding of reading material when compared to traditional novels.

COMPLETING THE CHALLENGE

Students will read 15 graphic novels over the course of 4th grade. Students will cross off a bubble for each graphic novel they read on the opposite page. Once a student completes the challenge, they can visit any CMPL location to receive their prizes – which will include a free book!

Graphic novels are complex and written in many different genres. Anything from fantasy, realistic fiction, adventure, humor, or even nonfiction and biographies! Students are encouraged to read what appeals to them, but please only count a title once for this challenge.

Put an X over a dialog bubble every time you finish a graphic novel. Let us know what your favorites were below!
