Protective Housing

➤ USER GUIDE

Additional Instructions for The Use of Housings

Warm advice:

Since the camera will heat up when you use it, we recommend that you use this product after tearing off the protective film of the camera body (not the lens and screen protective film). Avoid heat conduction of the protective film from damaging the sponge strips in the waterproof case.

A single hair or grain of sand on the housing and rubber seals can cause leaks or affect image and sound quality. Please pay special attention to your use and maintenance! If you encounter the above problems, please do not use the waterproof shell for diving and other sports.

06

The Housing Daily Maintenance

CLEANING THE LENS

Keep the lens clean by wiping it with a soft, damp cloth if it comes in contact with food, lotion, ink, or anything that could cause a stain. Do not use window cleaners, household cleaners, solvents, alcohol, or anything abrasive. (Please only clean the surface of the lens housing, not the inside.)

CLEANING THE HOUSING

When cleaning, it is recommended that you wash the case surface with fresh water, especially after use in the sea. If there is any foreign matter inside the waterproof case, please wipe it with a clean damp cloth. After cleaning, it is recommended that you wipe dry with a lint-free cloth, shake dry or air dry naturally.

07

The Housing Daily Maintenance

If you're snorkeling or using it on sand. It is recommended that you clean the case after each use. If you shoot daily on land, it is recommended that you clean once a day.

How to maintain the waterproof case when it is not in use?

When you do not use the housing, please use fresh water to clean the waterproof shell. The housing is placed in a dry, dust-free environment to avoid direct sunlight and reduce contact with water and dust. This will make your camera waterproof case is longer life!

08

Additional Instructions for The Use of Housings

The waterproof housing won't open in cold environment?

► If you use a housing in cold air, you may not be able to open the housing.

Therefore, it is recommended that you install the housing case for the camera outdoors, not indoors.

(This is because the indoor and outdoor temperatures are not the same. Maybe after installation, the pressure inside and outside the waterproof housing is inconsistent, resulting in the failure to open the waterproof housing.)

► If you've already installed a waterproof case but can't open it to take out the camera inside, it's recommended that you choose one or two of the following methods:

- Soak in warm water for about 7 min
- Cover with a hot towel for 5 min
- Use your body heat and place it between your clothes and your body for about 10 min
